

---

ARCHIVES ORGANIZED

---

NINE KEYS TO RAISING A READER

Synopsis:

The nine speech bullets listed below will give parents, care givers and teachers basic understanding of the functioning of the brain during reading and what babies and children need to practice and experience to have a better chance at becoming proficient readers at an earlier age. The nine keys are presented with quick anecdotes and easily implemented ideas to begin adding these essentials today. The presentation may be adapted to any time restriction and for any group. Suggested participants would be mothers, parent groups, teachers, and grandparents. Please email sking@archivesorganized.com with questions or call 303-907-8828 to speak with Sharman King - speaker.

Brief Outline:

- Brain biology and technology
- Sleep
- Quiet, calm, organized peace
- Reading voice and cadence
- Imagination
- Vocabulary - love of words
- Respect and a love for books
- Exposure and example
- The leap from word decoding to fluent reading

© 2008 Archives Organized